

Courses Applied Toward Two Ed.S. Degrees

No graduate student may use credit hours from the same course in meeting the requirements for both an undergraduate and a graduate degree. A student pursuing a second Ed.S. degree may count up to nine (9) credits from the first earned Ed.S. degree toward requirement for the second degree providing the courses are recommended by the student's advisor and the first Ed.S. degree has been completed before the second degree.

A person may earn an Ed.S. degree at Georgia Southern University after receiving the same degree, in the same or another field, at another institution. The degree sought at Georgia Southern University is subject to the same provisions for transfer of credit as a first degree. If an Ed.S. degree is sought at this University after earning a doctorate here, a maximum of nine (9) credits from the doctoral work may be applied toward the Ed.S. degree.
