Department of Literature and Philosophy

A strong Department of Literature and Philosophy is central to a liberal arts education because it helps students to become incisive in their critical thinking, effective as communicators, aware of cultural diversity, and skillful as interpreters of the written and spoken word in all areas of life. We are committed to academic excellence, innovative instruction, and collaborative service to the community.

The disciplines of literature and philosophy - the traditional core of the humanities - ask the big questions: What does it mean to be human? How do we make meaning in this world? What is the relationship of individuals to society? Today these questions are complicated by topics such as class, race, ethnicity, and gender - all of which are addressed by classes in the Department. From Shakespeare to Postcolonial Studies to Existentialism to Epistemology, the Department of Literature and Philosophy has something for everyone.

Studying literature or philosophy provides excellent preparation for professional employment in any area where the close examination of written texts and the ability to communicate well are important. The Department takes pride in working with students to connect their immediate studies with their long-term goals.

A student graduating with a B.A. degree in English will be able to demonstrate the following:

1. A knowledge of literary periods, movements, genres, and authors that is informed by historical awareness, literary criticism, and theory.
2. The ability to analyze, synthesize, and evaluate a variety of texts.
3. The ability to communicate in a clear and concise manner for a variety of audiences.
4. The ability to incorporate, engage, and utilize well-planned and executed research.

A student graduating with a B.A. degree in Philosophy will be able to demonstrate the following:

1. Knowledge of the major philosophers and their theories, major philosophical fields, and ethical theories in the Western tradition.
2. Skill in critical thinking and argument evaluation.
3. The ability to understand, interpret, and evaluate philosophical arguments.
4. The ability to communicate ideas in a clear, concise, and persuasive manner, providing reasons and arguments for viewpoints, and adhering to the standards of academic writing.

ENGL 5235 Irish Literature to 1850
3 Credit Hours. 3 Lecture Hours. 0 Lab Hours.
The course examines Irish literature from its beginnings in the Gaelic oral tradition to the Great Famine of the 1840s. Students gain clear understanding of how Ireland's colorful and complex history has yielded exceptional prose, poetry, and drama. Matters considered include Ireland's four mythological cycles; its pseudo-historical invasion narratives; and its hagiographies (accounts of saints' lives). Students also study writings that reflect the four major stages of British colonization: Cambro-Norse, Tudor, Jacobean (or Scots-Irish), and Cromwellian. In addition, they explore literary genres specific to Ireland: dinnseanchas (place-lore literature); the aisling (nationalist vision literature); the caoineadh (bardic lament literature); and the Big House novel, which often has Gothic overtones. The course exposes participants to other important phenomena, too: the so-called stage Irishman; the peasant archetype; literature of resistance and revolution; and travel writings in the sublime tradition. All texts studied are in English or English translation.
Prerequisite(s): A minimum grade of "C" in ENGL 2131 and ENGL 2231.
Cross Listing(s): ENGL 5235G.

ENGL 5236 Irish Literature since 1850
