Department of Political Science

The Department of Political Science fosters the development of civically-engaged students who will become productive citizens dedicated to serving their communities, their nations, and the world. Classes in the department focus on inculcating in students a core understanding of politics, intellectual curiosity, a global consciousness, and a spirit for community activism. Students are provided with research and community service opportunities, public service internships, as well as study abroad experiences.

The B.A. program in Political Science prepares students for active citizenship by preparing them for professional careers in government, inter-governmental and non-governmental organizations, business, studies in law, political science, and public policy. Graduates of the B.A. program in Political Science will become life-long learners as they become cognizant of the institutions and processes of governance and the policies and historical and current events that shape their lives.

Upon completion of a degree in Political Science, graduates will be able to:

1. Delineate the theoretical and methodological differences between the subfields of political science, i.e., American Politics, Comparative Politics, International Relations, Political Theory, and Public Policy.
2. Utilize appropriate nomenclature of the various subfields in Political Science when discussing and writing.
3. Demonstrate an ability to distinguish between the political processes of different forms of government in both the international and domestic realm.
4. Recognize the underlying cultural, societal, philosophical, and political factors which have led to the policies found in the United States and different countries around the world.
5. Demonstrate an ability to think critically by utilizing appropriate theoretical constructs in both qualitative and quantitative research projects.
6. Incorporate appropriate methodologies into narratives which add to the ability to both analyze and explain political events and public policies.
7. Demonstrate an ability to write with both clarity and precision by utilizing key phrasing relevant to the study of political science.
8. Participate in discipline-specific activities which will further career goals in the graduate’s field of study.
