Women and Gender Studies

The mission of the Women's and Gender Studies Program at Georgia Southern University is to introduce students to the definitions, perspectives and methodology of the study of gender as an identity category. The Women's and Gender Studies Program at Georgia Southern University offers an inter-disciplinary minor available to all undergraduate students, regardless of major.

As an interdisciplinary minor, the Women's and Gender Studies Program promotes collaboration across diverse disciplines and among students, faculty, and the community who work together to understand the ways in which ideologies of gender and sexuality permeate the entire fabric of society.

Through course offerings in the undergraduate minor in Women's and Gender Studies (WGST), the program promotes academic study and dialogue on a broad range of topics related not only to women's contributions to the fundamental fields of human knowledge and achievement, but also to interdisciplinary studies of feminisms, masculinity, sex, gender, and sexuality.

The Women's and Gender Studies Program supports research, teaching, and outreach activities that analyze gender as an identity category; the relationship between gender and other identity categories, including race, class, ethnicity, nationality, and sexuality; and historical and contemporary gender issues in local, regional, national, and cross-cultural contexts.

Guided by disciplinary standards, the Women's and Gender Studies Program supports the University's mission by fostering research, teaching, and outreach activities that promote integrity, civility, kindness, and collaboration.
